The UCLA Sex Squad is offering live, in-person performances to high school students to supplement state-mandated comprehensive sexual health education. Performed by UCLA students, the show includes a mix of dance, theater, music, and poetry to address topics including healthy relationships, overcoming bullying, affirming sexual/gender identities, and more. High school students are invited to attend the show at UCLA and receive a special campus tour.

AMP! is a program of the UCLA Art & Global Health Center in a multi-year collaboration with the LAUSD HIV/AIDS Prevention Unit. The program offers inclusive and affirming theatrical performances, arts-based lesson plans, and interactive workshops. The contents align with the CA Healthy Youth Act and CA Health Education Standards.
